

Our Partner Programme

Take ownership of a programme by partnering with us

- Titled recognition allows you to take pride in your leadership role in enhancing educational opportunities and creating something truly transformative.
- Your deeper level of engagement allows you to work directly with those directly delivering the programmes, and opens the door on extensive volunteering opportunities for your team.

Bespoke Solution:
Sustained and planned investment

We collaborate with likeminded Corporate Partners to achieve our shared goals.

Together we develop a bespoke solution so you can meet targeted corporate social responsibility goals.

We love ambitious ideas and courageous leadership and firmly believe that social change requires a team effort.

Why partner a programme?

Education is the most powerful tool to help children reach their life goals

Be part of something wonderful

It offers you an opportunity to seed fund the establishment of a new educational initiative or the geographic roll out of a programme in it's infancy.

Transform lives through innovative programmes

We use our expertise to identify programmes that have the potential to make real headway in disadvantaged communities around Ireland.

Decide on level and duration of your investment

You maintain control about where your investment goes. We put our expertise to use and save you time by overseeing all due diligence requirements.

Shape your team involvement

Volunteering opportunities allow you to connect with participants of the programme in a meaningful and rewarding way.

Align your company values

Our understanding of the environment of educational disadvantage helps us to match company values with compatible inspirational educators.

Elevate and amplify

Our investment helps amplify your impact and we work together to share the story and elevate our voice. diligence requirements.

What is involved?

If you are excited at the idea of a titled programme here are some guidelines to consider.

- We ask for a commitment of between 2 and 5 years.
- We ask that the agreed programme has a developmental aspect.
- We ask for a minimum financial contribution of €20,000.
- We ask that we collaborate on monitoring and evaluation.
- We ask that we share stories and media opportunities.

How do I go about it?

Once you decide that a partner programme may be of interest to your organisation, we'd love to talk. We can discuss possible programmes, allocate you a basis.point champion, help you create a funding proposal and get you quickly up and running.

✉ Contact Edel O'Malley: eomalley@basispoint.ie

Shining examples of Partnerships

IPUT

IPUT partner with basis.point on the Business in the Community Time to Grow Programme providing work experience and summer internships for DEIS school students in Dublin.

Duration: 3 years
Amount: €150,000

Levelling the playing field

Fostering greater inclusion in the workplace, we offer internships to young people from areas of disadvantage, introducing them to a world that may otherwise have been difficult to access, forging connections that will stand to them as they journey towards their life aspirations.

HSBC

HSBC partner with basis.point and Foróige on the new 21st Century Employability Programme.

Duration: 2 years
Amount: €90,000

Creating new horizons

Bringing together three powerful strands of non-formal education, participants from areas of rural disadvantage have the opportunity to develop transferable skills, combining leadership, entrepreneurship and technological know-how, to meet the challenges of the workforce of the future.

Kennedy Wilson

Kennedy Wilson are committed to improving opportunities for the local community and partner with basis.point on two key education and mentoring programmes delivered in association with ELI and Archways.

Duration: 5 years
Amount: €100,000

Building for the future

Two co-funding programmes focusing on early intervention and positive role modelling for extremely vulnerable children. The think Big programme encourages children with talents outside the standard curriculum to reach their potential.